FOUNDER

Immanuel Lutheran College was founded in the year 1903 by the Evangelical Lutheran Synodical Conference, the largest body of Lutherans in the land. The Synodical Conference is a union of those Synods which in confession of faith and in practice adhere strictly to the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments as the inspired Word of God, and to the Confessional Books of the Lutheran Church as the correct interpretation of the same. This body of Lutherans numbers over 193,500 communicant members and has congregations and schools in every state of the Union, but two. Besides maintaining a large number of higher educational institutions, such as Seminaries, Colleges, Normals, Academies and High Schools, it has studded the land, especially the Middle and the Northwest, with school houses in which more than 149,475 children are instructed by Christian teachers, educated at its own Normal Schools, for ten months in the year, in the Christian religion and in all the secular branches taught in the common school. Of the mission fields the Home Mission is the most extensive. In that work several hundred missionaries and pastors are engaged. It meets the emigrants and seamen at the large seaports, at home and abroad, and breaks the Bread of Life to them; it offers a despised and rejected Jesus to the Jews; it builds the kingdom of Christ among the American natives in Wisconsin, Arkansas and Arizona, among the Negroes of the South and the Eskimos of Alaska; it preaches the gospel to the deaf and dumb in their own silent tongue; it sends its messengers to the unfortunates lingering in prisons, penitentiaries, hospitals, homes for the aged, and poor houses of our large cities; it rescues and provides Christian homes for the fatherless and the abandoned "little ones"; and it sends the message of a Savior's love over distant seas to the Gentile world.

The mission among the liberated Negroes of the South was begun in 1877, when the first missionary was sent out chiefly for the purpose of studying the condition of the people. For nearly forty years the Synodical Conference has been actively at work among them, establishing churches and Christian schools, which in the year 1915 had an attendance of about 2,000 children. The largest fields are in Louisiana and North Carolina.

ORIGIN AND AIM

Immanuel Lutheran College owes its origin to an increased demand for God-fearing, educated Negro ministers and teachers who can preach the Word of Life to their race in unfalsified truth and teach and train the children in the rudiments of the Christian religion.

The chief object of this school, therefore, is to provide a liberal and practical training for Lutheran young men who intend to enter the ministry or engage in missionary school work, and for gifted girls who desire to enter the service of the Lutheran Church as Christian school teachers, but it welcomes any youth who wishes to avail himself of the advantages of the Academic Department.

Believing that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," the College regards mental training without the Word of God to be of small value. A knowledge of languages, ancient and modern, of mathematics, literature and science is good and profitable for this life and is imparted to the students with great care, but the knowledge of the love of Christ is best. Religious instruction and the development of Christian character is, we take it, the most important part of a man's or woman's education.

The College desires, through the religious instruction and Christian influence, to reach as many as possible also of those who do not intend to serve the Church as ministers and teachers. It is confident that those who have been educated on the basis of Christian principles will also in other occupations exert a beneficial influence and bring others unto salvation.

Devotional exercises are held mornings and evenings, and divine service in the chapel twice every Sunday.

The discipline, in harmony with the religious spirit of the institution, is Christian, impartial strictness tempered with love. No pains are spared to make the discipline effective and truly educating, to maintain a high moral tone, to inculcate gentlemanly and lady-like principles and manners, and to develop Christian characters.

LOCATION AND BUILDING

The College was temporarily located at Concord, N. C., where for nearly three years it occupied rooms in the parochial school buliding of the Colored Lutheran Grace Church. In the fall of 1905 it was removed to Greensboro, N. C., where for two years it ocupied temporary buildings. "The Piedmont section of the State of North Carolina enjoys in the most lavish degree a salubrious and healthy climate." Greensboro, with railroad facilities unequalled by any city in the State, lies in the center of it. It is free from severity of cold in the winter and is delightful in summer. In this thriving, busy city of about 15,895 inhabitants, on fourteen acres of elevated grounds on East Market Street Extension (Lutherville), stands Immanuel Lutheran College.

The building (two stories, with a roomy attic and basement) is built of Mt. Airy granite with cement trimmings. It is a massive, imposing structure, noble and pleasing in architecture and beautifully situated on an elevation overlooking the city to the southwest.

To reach College from railroad station, walk north on Elm street to Market street, then about one mile east on Market street.

BOARD AND LODGING

At present the College can furnish board and lodging for male students only. Female students can obtain board and lodging in private families in the neighborhood of the College at a low rate.

LIBRARY AND STUDENTS' READING ROOM

The library and the Students' Reading Room occupy convenient quarters on the second floor of the building. The Library contains some 1,400 volumes, and efforts are being made to increase its usefullness by adding to it works of references, magazines, secular and religious weeklies.

CORRESPONDENCE

All correspondence respecting the College should be addressed to the President of Immanuel Lutheran College, Box 743, Greensboro, N. C.

THE SCHOOL TERM

The regular term for the Academic Department opens Tuesday, October 3, 1916, and closes April 30, 1917. This means a term of seven months only for this department. Students of this department are expected to be present from the first day to the last of this term of seven months.

The regular term for the Theological and Teachers Seminary opens on Monday, September 4, 1916, and closes on June 1, 1917. The months of September and May will be devoted almost exclusively to pedagogical subjects. We invite all who intend to teach in the public schools, whether students of our College or not, to join the Seminary classes during these two months. Correspondence solicited.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO THE THEOLOGICAL AND TEACHERS DEPARTMENTS

Candidates for admission to these departments must have taken a literary course in some institution, a course equivalent to the four years' course of our Academic Department, and must present diplomas of graduation, if requested by the President. Graduates of Luther College will send their last report to the President. Application blanks furnished on request. Applications should be in the hands of the President by July 31st.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION TO THE ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT

Candidates for admission to this department should write the President for an application blank. This must in every case be filled out by the applicant himself and returned in the envelope provided for the purpose. Male applicants intending to board in the institution must enclose $1 to insure engagement of a room. This sum will be credited to the student's board account on entrance.

No student will be received as a resident in the College building for less than one school year, or the entire part of the year remaining after entrance.

Candidates for admission must be at least fourteen years of age. They must be able to read English fluently, write a fair, legible hand, be prepared in Elementary Arithmetic, Geography, Grammar, and United States History. They are requested to present themselves for examination on October 2 at 9 o'clock a. m. All applicants aspiring to a higher class than that of the first year must pass an examination in every study required to enter that class, except in German. Applicants failing to pass the examination for the lowest class will receive instruction in the Primary Department until prepared to meet the requirements.

In all cases the Faculty reserves the right to require supplementary examinations, if the student does not creditably sustain himself in his work.

Satisfactory testimonials of good character must in all cases be submitted to the President when returning the application. Those coming from other institutions are required to present a certificate of honorable dismissal.

GENERAL REGULATIONS FOR ALL STUDENTS

Every student is urgently requested to be present on the first day of the school year and to remain until the term closes. Those coming in after the term has begun must take an examination in the work already covered during their absence. Those students who leave before the term has closed must take the final examinations of their class on their return to the institution, before they will be permitted to continue with their class.

No student is allowed to pay visits to his home during the term except by the President's permission.

Strict observance of study hours and punctual attendance on all prescribed exercises are required.

Indoor and outdoor work is obligatory on all students. Resident students boarding in the College should be provided with overalls and a strong pair of work shoes.

All students boarding at the College are required to attend the Sunday school and the divine services held in the College chapel. All day students not residing with their parents in the city are required to attend the Sunday school of the College.

All day students are expected, in general, to observe the same regulations respecting deportment and hours of study as those living in the College building.

No student is permitted to make debts without the permission of the President.

The faculty reserves the right to regulate the correspondence of the students. An extensive corespondence is detrimental to the best school work.

All students unable to present certificates of immunity from smallpox either through recent vaccination or previous attack of the disease must be willing to submit to vaccination, when required by the President.

All students boarding at the College must furnish their own towels and bed clothes (sufficient covers, and at least two sheets, one pillow, and two pillow slips).

The clothing of the students must be plain and becoming. Extravagant and unnecessary finery will not be tolerated, not even at Commencement. Good behavior, Christian piety, and faithful application to study will be considered the best ornaments.

Failure to purchase all books, within fourteen days after entrance, will result in the student's being dropped from the roll. Failure to pay the first month's board or the first month's tuition fee or the required annual fees, will have the same result. All following payments of board and tuition must be made punctually. Students not paying their board or tuition within the month in which the payment is due will be dismissed.

Every student entering Immanuel College is regarded as giving a sacred promise to observe these and all other regulations that will be announced, as necessary for the preservation of good order and Christian discipline.

THE PRIMARY DEPARTMENT

This department, for the benefit of the children in the vicinity, opens on the first Monday in September and closes on the last Friday in May. During the past year it was in charge of Mr. E. W. Reid and Mrs. M. N. Carter.

The Christian religion is taught daily besides the secular branches generally imparted in the public school. It occupies a separate building on the college premises and has three rooms large enough, it is thought, to accommodate all that may wish to attend the school. The cost of this building has been met by contributions from the school children of the Ev. Lutheran Synodical Conference of North America. A small tuition, to be paid in advance, is charged in this department.
